Concordia

Once a struggling town, Skällrea was reborn as Concordia under Juliane Ericksen’s vision.

A town built on surveillance and data collection – not for nefarious self-serving purposes but for the greater good of society and its citizens. Its leadership’s sole goal is to create a freer, fairer, and more humane society – for today and tomorrow. By its 20th anniversary, Concordia is thriving – an indisputable success and on the verge of expansion. The town is only 9 days away from announcing the export and launch of its technology in the German city of Kopwitz, when a catastrophe hits: the town’s first ever murder – an employee at Concordia HQ.

4 And as the team around Isabelle Larsson, a Concordia devotee, and Thea Ryan, an external crisis manager, races to solve the crime, a second disaster shocks the town: a hack of the town’s impenetrable AI. Together, these events compromise the very foundation of the Concordia project – and undermine any possibility of expansion. When the team discovers that an international anti-surveillance group called ‘The Faceless’ could be behind the crime and may have access to the system, the threat becomes increasingly urgent and even life-threatening. And as the town’s investigation unfolds further, the story becomes a race against time – to fix the hack, solve the murder, and get the expansion over the line. However, the team soon find themselves staring down a deeply disturbing original sin – a sin that undermines the promise of Concordia far more than any of these threats ever could and that could bring everything crumbling down.

Boundless

Rejected by the King of Portugal to finance an expedition to mythical lands in pursuit of priceless spices, explorer Ferdinand Magellan convinces the Spanish Crown to fund the mission that will take an unexplored ocean route west.

Setting sail 500 years ago with 5 Spanish ships and a crew of 265 men, including commander and former prisoner Juan Sebastián Elcano, Magellan's journey would face sabotage by the Portuguese, as well as hostile Spanish foes. With unimaginable suffering – starvation, death and punishing weather – sailors resorted to mutiny after a year at sea until finally finding the Strait of Magellan. A critical juncture after reaching the Philippines would test leadership, requiring captain and crew to battle the indigenous tribes, resulting in disastrous losses before continuing their journey.

Former anti-hero, Elcano, not Magellan, would lead the expedition to glory, returning 3 years later with 18 survivors and a hull full of spices, as captain of one of the greatest navigational triumphs. This legacy of travelling to the Earth's unknown ends would change man's perception of the world and the existence of an ocean route west.

Directed by Simon West (producer of Oscar-nominated Black Hawk Down), Boundless features high production values shot in locales including the Dominican Republic, the Basque Country, Madrid and Seville.

The Swarm

The Swarm is an eight-part thriller series from Emmy Award-winning showrunner Frank Doelger (Game of Thrones).

The world's oceans are exhibiting strange happenings causing global unrest. Engaged by an oil company to conduct a biological survey, Sigur Johanson, a professor of marine biology, discovers a destabilising ice worm threatening the continental shelf and triggering tsunamis. Molecular biologist Cécile Roche struggles with deadly bacteria poisoning drinking water, while whale researcher Leon Anawak tries to explain why the largest ocean mammals are displaying unusually dangerous behaviour, aggressively attacking boats. The situation becomes increasingly ominous, yet nobody can draw a connection between the seemingly random occurrences. Believing something bigger is at play, this group of scientists come together in their belief there is an intelligent life force dwelling in the deep Arctic Ocean, capable of manipulating its environment, the ocean, and everything that resides in it. No one believes the scientists' theory that this sophisticated creature has borne witness to man's destruction of the seas and has decided to drive humanity to extinction.

Confronted with an existential threat to all, they undertake a daring mission, manning a cutting-edge, technologically engineered vessel to track this intelligent life force, delving deep within the Arctic Ocean into the endless ice in search of an unknown menace.

Feelings

In this moody and atmospheric coming-of-age story, a teenager traverses friendship, self-doubts and love in a secluded village deep in a mystical forest. But as a mysterious darkness that hides in the woods begins to creep out, the line between reality and fantasy begins to fade.

After her father decides to relocate them from the city to the village of Lohweide, social misfit Alva (16) is far from pleased with her new surroundings. She is having trouble finding her place in the close-knit community, especially when stories about her missing uncle begin to circulate, making her feel more alone than ever before.

That is until she meets Esma (17). With notable make-up and a self-assured attitude, Esma is one of a kind. Unlike Alva, Esma doesn't care about fitting in. Encouraged by their developing friendship, Alva is trying to let go of the difficult life she left behind and as her feelings towards Esma begin to intensify, Alva realises she's in love.

But her hopes of a genuine connection are overshadowed by strange goings-on in the forest. There is something there that seems to call to Alva. She sees an ominous glow between the trees, curious mushrooms and a dark shadow that is frightening her. As the forest beckons her in, Alva senses that something is terribly wrong.

With an innovative multi-platform distribution, Feelings is a coming-of-age mystery series aimed at teenagers and young adults between the ages of 14 and 20.

The Window

A character-based thriller set in the world of elite professional football – without any actual football. A blue-collar family drama with heart and soul, intertwined with conspiracy around the deals, double-crosses and corruption that take place in this multi-billion dollar global business. This is The Window.

Told through an ensemble cast, the series eschews the on-field action, choosing instead to explore the rich, dark circus surrounding the sport the world loves and loathes. It lifts the lid not only on the mindsets of players but also on the complex psychologies and motivations of agents, administrators, governing bodies, broadcasters and journalists in the cut-throat world of football.

The series begins at the end of the English Super League (ESL) season. The champions have been crowned. The relegated teams drop down a division. And of course, the transfer window opens.

Across ten episodes, The Window charts one summer in the life of Jordan Burdett, a humble 17-year-old wunderkind with a golden touch who has gate-crashed Liverpool-based Merseyside Athletic's first team. Twelve goals in eight games have put him in a position where the world is at his feet.

Wrestling for control of Jordan's destiny is Kieran Burdett, his street-smart big brother, and Romulus Daglis, a waning big-time agent with a dark heart, working for Sceptre Sports Agency. What starts out as a tug of war over a young lad's first professional contract becomes entwined with a bigger, darker story that threatens the soul of the beautiful game itself.

The World's Nicest People

Inspired by classic suspense short stories and popular anthology series such as The Twilight Zone, the new supernatural series The World's Nicest People reflects modern-day life in four spine-chilling and often humorous stand-alone stories.

In the first story, teenage Lill is forced to stay home due to her severe allergies as her father calls her with an urgent warning. Someone is about to pay her a visit, someone who intends to kill her. To make matters spookier, Lill had already predicted that all of this would happen. A job interview for a position in a large corporation is the setting for the second story, as a battle for a coveted role takes place between the experienced and mature Petra and the young high-flyer Kay, who seems to have the upper hand. But as the power balance begins to shift, nothing is what it seems. In the third story, Marten's love life woes make him feel like the unluckiest guy on Earth. But when he stays in his uncle's luxury apartment to take care of his pet, the little creature gives him strength and confidence. So what if the animal turns out to be a little bit monstrous? Thanks to an illegal surveillance camera he uses to creep on his colleagues in the fourth story, Mika, the night clerk at a hotel, finds out that two of his attractive colleagues are planning a horrific crime. But Mika knows just what to do to prevent it.

These four separate stories share one key connection – Lill. But what role is she about to play? And what do a crossbow, a manga comic and a video game have to do with anything?

Before We Die | S02

The hit series Before We Die starring Lesley Sharp as Detective Hannah Laing is back for another electrifying season. At the forefront of season two are two matriarchs battling for supremacy: Detective Hannah Laing, a woman determined to fight corruption, and her antagonist Dubravka, the figurehead of the Mimica crime family and mother of Bianca, the lover of Hannah's son. Hannah is fighting for redemption, Dubravka for revenge. But both women will ultimately pay a high price for what they want.

After the shooting of the head of the Mimica family, Hannah and Billy continue collecting evidence that could reveal the extent of the corruption in the police headquarters. But Hannah discovers that this fight spares no one, not even those she loves. Meanwhile, abducted from her hideout in Costa Rica and taken back to the UK in a container on board a ship, pregnant Bianca must find a way to escape her mother's clutches who intends to force her to miscarry her baby. Christian tries desperately to track her down, unaware that Dubravka's goons are hot on his heels. As the future balances on a knife-edge, Hannah and Bianca fight with every ounce of their strength and cunning to protect the unborn child from being born into a life of murderous crime.

Before We Die, one of Channel 4's most successful box set series, is adapted from the highly acclaimed Swedish series Innan vi dör. This thriller was a streaming phenomenon with an incredible 12 million streamers, 84 % viewer retention from episode one to season one's final episode and airing internationally in countries including Australia, Israel, New Zealand, and the US.

Clean Sweep

Shelly Mohan is a super mum. Her super power? Multitasking. She juggles the complex lives and schedules of 3 kids attending 2 different schools, each with their own needs and issues. Her days are filled with cleaning, shopping and chauffeuring, shuttling kids from schools to practices, and yet she somehow also manages to have a homemade meal on the table by the time her husband, a local detective, arrives home every night. Her evenings consist of helping the children with their homework, doing the laundry and washing dishes. It's chaotic and mostly thankless; it's a life undervalued in contemporary society, but it is a life she has chosen – or created – for herself. But Shelly has a dark secret, one she has successfully concealed for decades... After nearly 20 years of presuming her secret to be safe, she is plagued by the sudden re-emergence of her former boyfriend and partner in crime. When he threatens to expose her past and thus destroy the new life she has worked tirelessly to create, she makes a fatal choice. In that moment, it becomes apparent that Shelly will resort even to murdering a man in cold blood to protect herself.

This action will launch the two narratives of the series. Why did she do it? And will she get caught? The mystery unfolds through flashbacks where it is revealed that Shelly was once a member of an Irish street gang in London that turned violent. But going forward, she'll have to hide her present AND past life, as law enforcement, including her husband, closes in on her.

The Crimson Rivers | S04

An adaptation of Jean-Christophe Grangé's best-selling novel, The Crimson Rivers Season 4 features eight new episodes. Myths and legends transcend time, alongside modernity and murder. Detectives Pierre Niémans and Camille Delaunay investigate: an art academy and macabre case of 'life imitating art imitating death'; a mythical half-hyena, half-man believed to be clawing its victims to death; an ancient Greek text and a deadly game of voyeurism; and a detention centre where the most violent psychopathic criminals, subject to mysterious drug protocols, are vanishing. Peeling back layers of history and regional traditions, the detectives find themselves in perplexing murders, beyond the boundaries of police capabilities. Harkening back to superstition, the detectives reveal the crimes are firmly grounded in science and reason.

The Enemy of my Enemy

Klaus Burg and his 18-year-old daughter Alina live in a witness protection programme and have built a new, modest existence in a remote village in Iceland. Through Burg's help, the Federal Criminal Police succeeded in busting an 'Ndrangheta clan. But his incriminating knowledge continues to make the former lawyer a target: Burg had insight into 'La Carta', the Mafia's business records. When the Mafia discovers Burg's secret whereabouts, a hit squad plans an assassination attempt on him and Alina. It is thwarted at the last second by the surprising intervention of mercenaries in the service of the charismatic self-made billionaire Gabriel Morales, who now wants to meet Burg in Italy. Burg agrees to accept the invitation of his unknown saviour even though he must leave Alina in the care of the mercenaries on the Faroe Islands. Upon his arrival, Morales makes him an unexpected offer.

The Shadow

Norah is in Vienna, looking for a fresh start when a stranger with a terrifying prophecy changes everything. The Shadow, a gripping psychological drama series from ZDFneo, is adapted from the best-selling book by Melanie Raabe and questions whether even the most moral humans can be manipulated to cross ethical boundaries.

Arriving in Vienna on a hot summer's day, Norah (30), an impulsive, driven journalist with a strong sense of justice is just looking for a clean slate, starting a job at a magazine in the heart of the city. Exploring her new surroundings, Norah is suddenly grabbed by an old beggar woman who whispers to her desperately that Norah is going to kill a man named Arthur Grimm in 42 days' time. Norah is shaken by the exchange, but doesn't believe the prophecy initially. In the next few days however, harrowing events begin to occur around her – she finds the dead body of the beggar floating in the river and moments later, Norah receives a message from an unknown number warning her about a person called Arthur Grimm.

As the time ticks by and the prophesied day approaches, things start disappearing from her apartment, and Norah starts suffering from memory lapses, leading her to question her own sanity. She is further unsettled when an ominous connection between the mysterious Arthur and Norah's childhood friend Valerie begins to surface.

Norah is being sucked into the self-fulfilling prophecy and is unable to swim against the tides of fate. But is she truly capable of killing someone?

SOKO Potsdam

This engrossing detective series set against the backdrop of the picturesque city of Potsdam is like the city of Potsdam itself – warm-hearted and honest. For five seasons now, SOKO Potsdam has mastered the balance between dark crime topics and humorous antics as the fresh and unconventional team of detectives works determinedly to solve crimes while still finding time for a bit of playful banter.

In the fifth instalment of SOKO Potsdam, two detectives, Tamara Meurer and Pauline Hobrecht, work in unison to solve a string of perplexing crimes. Tamara grew up in the GDR and has the famous Brandenburg charm. She has a robust personality and her heart is in the right place. New to the team, Pauline Hobrecht is competitive, smart and comes from Potsdam's elite. She is a logician, capable of piecing large amounts of information and clues together where others would lose track.

In the fifth series, we dive straight into the action – Pauline is just about to introduce herself to the team when a frightened young man enters the office and tells them he has been kidnapped and held captive. Digging into the files, the detectives find that indeed there was an unsolved missing child case eleven years ago. Could the appearance of the young man be the missing piece in that long-lost case?

Every episode of the series entails a uniquely shocking crime that tests Tamara and Pauline as well as the rest of their team. But as the search for the truth intensifies, will the SOKO team always get to the bottom of things?

The Old Fox

Still going strong after 30 years on the air, The Old Fox, an ever-popular crime series centred around a senior investigator of the homicide division of the Munich Police, holds its own among younger competitors.

Through the years, we've seen a variety of old foxes lead the team, each one with his own distinct personality and investigating style: Erwin Köster, the lone wolf; Leo Kress, the team player; the warm and patient Rolf Herzog; and confidence-inspiring Richard Voss. But one thing they all have in common: their dedication to their job and to their team.

Taking up the gauntlet in the newest season is the charming yet cunning detective Caspar Bergmann, who is an enigma to his team and knows just how to hone in on the finer details of a case. Teamed up with Annabell, Caspar and his team are confronted with some of the most harrowing cases this team has ever faced.

Based on the novels by the best-selling author Elisabeth Herrmann, The Joachim Vernau Collection is a film series that captivates the audience with its stylish settings and unpredictable plots.

Joachim Vernau, a sophisticated attorney living in bustling Berlin, is as smart as a whip and wholeheartedly driven by his need for justice. Set to join the law firm of his future father-in-law, Joachim had a chance at big success. But when a suspicious letter was sent to the family from a former nanny, curious Joachim couldn't help himself – he had to investigate. Digging into the family's inglorious past ended up costing Joachim a secure future and the connection to the influential family. As a result, Joachim has become a lone wolf left to his own devices and taking on the investigation of explosive criminal cases that have him travelling the world and discovering long-hidden secrets of the past.

In a riveting new instalment, Joachim receives an unusual visitor at his law firm – his own mother. Her long-time partner Ingeborg Huth has been disappearing from their shared apartment for days at a time lately and she wants to know why. It doesn't take long till Joachim tracks down Huth at an opulent summer party in a manor house in the little village of Dark

Lake, where she seems to be having an affair with the local mayor. Vernau considers the case closed, but the next day, the host of the party is found dead. As Joachim starts questioning the suspicious locals, his desire to find the truth has him opening doors that are best kept shut.

Hotel Barcelona

In the bustling metropolis of Barcelona along the sizzling north-eastern Spanish coast, it's business as usual for this family-run hotel. But hotel life is anything but simple, especially as new faces among the close-knit employees begin to shake up the status quo.

In the debut season of this tantalising new Herzkino series, Laura Santos, along with her son Pedro, is finally returning to her childhood home, Hotel Barcelona. Founded by her parents, this hotel holds many memories for Laura, some good and some bad. Her hope is that her return and reunion with her mother, Isabel, may help their relationship as well as her connection with her son.

While Laura and Pedro are acclimatising to their new location, the hotel deputy manager, Mateo Bonachera, is working hard to keep things running at the hotel, which is often easier said than done. Once the lowly dishwasher at the hotel, Mateo has worked his way up and is now proud to be the manager's right-hand man. When he is reunited with the hotel owners' daughter, Laura, he is more than happy to see her again. But could the feelings he has for Laura get in the way of the plans he's made?

The hotel's senior manager, Isabel, has her back to the wall trying to keep the hotel up and running; the building is beginning to crumble and is in dire need of renovation, and to make matters worse, modern hotel chains are putting pressure on Isabel by poaching hotel guests and even her employees. Can this traditional hotel persevere when the odds are stacked against it?

Legacy

Legacy is a classy, first-of-its-kind South African telenovela with startling storylines set in the high-octane world of investment billionaires and a magnificent, diverse cast. At its heart, it is a story about a family at war with itself.

Legacy’s conflict takes place in an upmarket investment empire that was established decades ago by Sebastian Price, the patriarch of the super-wealthy Price family. Now he is a silver fox approaching retirement from his position as CEO of Legacy Investments and it is clear that a family member will soon have to take over the reins. But who will it be? And at what cost?

When tragedy strikes and Sebastian dies, it comes to a power struggle within the family. Sebastian’s bitter ex-wife, Angelique, and ruthless first-born daughter, Felicity, will do whatever it takes to ensure that Sebastian’s second wife, Dineo, does not push her playboy son, SJ, into the position of CEO. Of course, the power struggle turns nasty. A witches’ brew of betrayal, secrets, lies and revenge.

The stakes are high as things keep unravelling, but the Prices will do anything to protect their Legacy.

A Summer In...

We've all dreamed of escaping our humdrum lives in search of a more exciting (preferably sunnier) destination. In these stories, these women do just that, moving far away to fulfil their dream of a different life, exploring an unfamiliar city and encountering a whole new culture. As this romantic travel series celebrates its tenth anniversary, summertime truly is the season to find love or rekindle old flames.

In the latest A Summer in..., thirty-something Isabel is totally broke. After investing all her money in a failed start-up, Isabel has filed for bankruptcy and is at a loss about what to do. When her estranged father dies and leaves her his house on the island of Crete, Isabel sees this as a godsend – she can sell the house and finally be free of her debts. That is until she arrives at the house to find that Sofia, her father's ex-wife, is living in the house with her adult son, the handsome yet moody Silas. Sofia has a lifetime right of residence and the newly divorced Silas has been living at the house since his breakup along with little son Niko. Selling the house with these residents quickly turns out to be an impossible task, especially since Silas is anything but cooperative as he fears that Isabel will find a legal loophole to throw them out.

Isabel is racing against the clock to sell the house in time for the strict deadline set by the bankruptcy manager, while Silas does everything he can to make her life difficult. But when he realises that it is not Isabel's greed but her debt pressure that drives her actions, will he start to warm to her and maybe even help?

Inga Lindström Collection

With its rocky islands, vast forests, and picturesque lakes, Sweden forms the stunning backdrop for the Inga Lindström Collection, a series of adaptations of the best-selling book series from the talented writer Christiane Saldo. Built around themes of family, friendship, and the ups and downs of life, and with its own unique cast and premise, each film brims with passion, roiling beneath a calm surface that beautifully mirrors the Nordic setting. With their twisting plots and dramatic revelations, Inga Lindström's films never fail to entertain and surprise. After trying every possibility, the realisation dawns on Hanna that she is unable to have children in Hanna and the Good Life, another captivating Inga Lindström film. Heartbroken and defeated, she decides to break things off with her boyfriend, Tom. When she meets Mikael, a carpenter who is travelling the world with his daughter Luna, she has no idea this encounter will turn her entire life upside down. But when secrets of the past begin to emerge, there may be more connecting her to Mikael than she thinks.

In The Sweetness of Life, amidst a heated row with her grumpy and inconsiderate boss, confectioner and single mother Juna quits her job at a bakery in Stockholm.

As she begins to worry about what to do next, she receives a call from her uncle Nils, who runs a small bakery in the coastal village of Vrena and needs her help. Taking up her uncle's offer, Juna runs into her teenage crush, the handsome but engaged Emil. Could this blast from the past bring back some long-forgotten feelings for Juna?

The Anders Family

In his career as a couples therapist, Fabian has faced many challenges. But nothing had prepared him for the hardest marriage he's ever tried to fix – his own. In this film series, we're reminded that relationships are never simple, especially when you throw careers, children and years of resentment into the mix.

After more than ten years of marriage and with two children living under their roof in their home in Leipzig, Fabian, an experienced and successful couples therapist, and Paula, a bike mechanic and business owner are close to divorce. As their marriage lies in tatters, it seems like it might be time to call it a day and move on separately with their lives. Then they try a novel method – the 'nest method', taking weekly shifts living in the house with the children while the other stays in the renovated barn in the garden. Fabian and Paula insist they aren't separating, only taking a 'break'. But are they truly being honest with themselves?

Not only is Fabian dealing with his own drama at home, he is also wading through his clients' relationship turmoil. A new couple registers themselves at Fabian Anders' practice: Rebecca and Mario. The two of them have been having an affair for a long time, but Rebecca is now fed up with her continuous status as a mistress and insists that Mario separate from his wife – which, contrary to expectations, he finally does. But instead of being happy about it, Rebecca throws herself into a new affair. To Fabian's dismay, his wife Paula may be doing the same. Does this signal the end of Fabian and Paula's marriage?

Womaniser, bachelor and jet-setter – ‘Dr. Nice’ is no ordinary doctor. Navigating life with confidence verging on arrogance, Dr. Moritz Neiss, a handsome and successful star surgeon knows exactly how good he really is and doesn’t shy away from undermining other doctors or speaking the honest truth, even when it hurts. In the first season of this one-of-a-kind film series however, things in Moritz’s life don’t go quite to plan.

Moritz has recently been dealt some shocking news – he fathered a daughter named Lea during a one-night stand 16 years ago. To make things more complicated, the girl’s mother has recently passed away and Moritz has been asked to attend the woman’s will reading in Flensburg where he meets Charlie, the step mother of Lea. Moritz immediately puts his foot in it with Charlie and their interaction is anything but friendly. But when Charlie states her wish to legally adopt Lea, Moritz is totally on board. That is until the executor of the will tells the pair that it will take some days until the paperwork can be signed, forcing Moritz to stay in the local village where he finally meets his daughter and the two begin to bond.

Dr. Moritz Neiss starts to offend the Flensburg villagers with his egocentric nature. But his undeniable skills as a doctor have them desperate for him to take up the role of the local doctor. Taking the job would mean letting go of his go-getter lifestyle and being closer to his daughter. With a history of holding people at arm’s length, is this a chance for Moritz to finally start letting people in?

Hotel Mondial

Sophistication, luxury and utter perfection – welcome to Hotel Mondial. This hotel promises top quality service, undeniable opulence and polite and accommodating staff who treat their guests with charm and discretion. But take a wrong turn in the hallway or press your ear against the door of a luxury suite and you’ll see what’s truly at the heart of the hotel – infidelity, lust and dirty secrets.

A new boss means new problems for the hotel staff at the Mondial. The devious and cold-hearted Eva de Vries wants to set new standards and knows no sympathy, which does nothing for her popularity among the staff. Only Ulli, the passionate head chef is on the new boss’s side, perhaps because as a perfectionist herself, she understands Eva’s drive to maintain the highest standards at the hotel, no matter the cost.

Eva is not the only new face at the hotel. Intelligent, witty and a people person, Lara is just the right fit for the manager’s assistant at the hotel. But her first day at the hotel goes anything but smoothly: no one at the hotel seems to be expecting her and while getting some fresh air, she’s mugged by a thief on a moped. These events seem to be a bad omen for Lara who continues to have more than her fair share of bad luck in her new role. But something important is keeping Lara at the hotel – the Hotel Mondial was the last place she saw her mother many years ago and Lara is determined to find answers.

Keeping a busy hotel running to perfection – it’s enough to keep one up at night. And in this job, in a hotel that never sleeps, it does just that.

Fluttering Hearts

In this love story about a young couple with Down’s syndrome, we see that first love is a strong and unstoppable force as Felix meets the brave and determined Emma and they begin a daring adventure of the heart.

Balancing work and parenting, Felix’s parents are constantly arguing over their responsibilities and there’s another thing at the front of his father Alexander’s mind – Felix’s heart condition. As he drops Felix at a theatre project on a farm run by Elisa, his interaction with the warm but distracted farm owner is anything but friendly as he doesn’t trust that Felix is safe there – especially when he sees his son overexerting himself.

The moment Felix locks eyes with Emma, another participant on the farm, sparks fly and the pair become inseparable. When a letter from Emma’s estranged grandfather arrives from Italy, the pair decide to run away together to visit him. Realising the couple have disappeared, Elisa, along with Alexander, drops everything and begins a desperate search for the young lovers.

During the pursuit of the pair, Alexander and Elisa gradually put their differences aside and begin to bond. She reveals to him that she herself had a daughter with Down’s syndrome who recently died. But as Silke, Felix’s mother, arrives in Italy, she starts to suspect that the two may be more than just friends.

Stopping Emma and Felix’s journey is becoming an impossible task. But the journey is taking its toll on Felix as his condition drastically worsens. In following his heart, will it be Felix’s heart problems that end their journey?

Fritzie’s Bucket List

When teacher, mother and friend Fritzie Kühne is unexpectedly diagnosed with cancer, this news becomes the catalyst that has her reexamining her old habits and embracing her inner rebel in the heart-felt drama Fritzie’s Bucket List.

Fritzie Kühne is a dedicated biology and PE teacher at the Berlin Rosalind Franklin school, who faces the daily school madness and her family life with empathy and understanding. But one day when Fritzie learns that a malignant tumour in her breast is beginning to spread, this news shakes Fritzie’s world in more ways than one. The diagnosis has her rethinking her life as she becomes aware of how conformist she is and how avoidant she is of voicing her opinion. As someone who always puts others’ needs first, it’s been a long time since she asked herself what she really wants. But as she grabs life with both hands, that’s exactly what she starts to do.

In the newest season of Fritzie’s Bucket List, Fritzie can’t believe her luck when the doctor tells her she’s finally healthy. The relieved Fritzie tries to focus her new-found energy on her teenage son and her job but when she learns that her ex-husband has met another woman, Fritzie struggles to keep her cool. In an attempt to move on from her failed marriage, Fritzie matches with someone on a dating app. To her utter horror however, she learns that the man she’s been messaging is actually one of her students and she fears that this could put her job in jeopardy. But for this daredevil cancer survivor, nothing is going to stand in the way of her happiness.

Duplex

Unapologetically bizarre, undoubtedly hilarious and totally addictive, Duplex is a sitcom in a category all of its own. In a semi-detached house in the heart of Berlin's suburbia live two families whose opposite worldviews have them at constant war with each other.

In the house on the right live city slickers Mari and Theo Knuppe and their teen daughter Zoe. They moved to the countryside in a bid to find some peace and quiet. But their neighbours have other ideas. In the house on the left with the German flag flying with pride live Andi and Tracy Sawadi-Kröger and their teen son Rocco. Mari and Theo have a migration background, yet so does Tracy. Her husband however could be described as conservative and considers his neighbours to be "quite nice for foreigners".

In the newest season of Duplex, both families long for a harmonious coexistence as the Knuppes bring home their brand new baby girl. Each episode however brings with it a totally original point of contention, whether it be a local golf tournament with €10,000 prize money up for grabs; an insect infestation that drives the Sawadi-Krögers out of their home; or a game night hosted by the Knuppes that takes an unexpected turn. This season even manages to take a step into the metaverse as both families attend Mari's brother Brian's exhibition in virtual reality. No matter how life throws these two families together, rest assured they'll find a way to misunderstand, offend or even almost kill each other. Expect turbulence, political incorrectness and a lot of awkward interactions in this sitcom from Stickup Film.
